School Board Wrestles With $150,000 Higher Budget

Lemon Grove school district trustees took a first look Monday night at the preliminary school budget with $150,000 more in expenditures in it this year than last and immediately agreed that it should be adjusted. The board will study budget each meeting until June 26.

Meanwhile, Paul Reynolds, district business manager, said that he anticipated a rise in assessed valuation of six per cent. That would bring the district's taxable property value to $37 million. The increase would produce about $150,000 in school taxes, he said.

The rising cost of doing business did not escape the attention of the board Monday night.

It heard, and filed as "interesting", a salary proposal of the American Federation of Teachers in which minimum salaries would be $6,300 with annual raises to $7,800 in the fourth year. Raises would be automatic and contracts would be for four years. Top salaries would be $15,550 the first year and automatically rise to $18,400 the fourth. A 3½% cost of living increase would also be added. The schedule was proposed for a 10-month work year.

The board approved an increase in auditing costs from $1,025 to $1,225 for the annual audit by the firm of Egger and Baughman. The firm had complained that requirements by the State took additional auditing time.

Trustees also agreed to spend $1,575 for data processing computation of Palm Junior High school's office work.

Trustees acknowledged that it would not reduce the work load nor reduce working hours but approved the expenditure as a pilot project.

Dent Makes First 'Official' Appearance In New District

Supervisor Robert Dent made his first "official" visit to Lemon Grove Monday when he told members of the L.G. Rotary club that the new ordinance, giving him part of Henry Boney's district would become effective 30 days after the ordinance is adopted by the supervisors.

The ordinance will be adopted when the County Counsel completes its preparation, he said. "That may be Tuesday or Tuesday week."

Dent explained that the move is no power grab. "It's the 'one man, one vote' law ordered by the Supreme Court. Either we do it in an orderly fashion or it will be done by the State."

He praised Henry Boney for the two years of representation he had given the residence of the changed district and suggested that residents think more that they have two supervisors instead of a replacement. "Mr. Boney's interest and affection are remaining in this district and we'll do what we can to keep that alive," Dent said.

Dent has been a resident of the County for 44 years and a supervisors for 10 years. He has been as popular in his city district as Boney has in the east county.

The change in boundaries bring the population total very close to 20 per cent each—the Supreme Court's objective.

Boney and Dent have been appearing together at East County meetings in anticipation of the change.

Dent takes all of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, La Presa and Casa de Oro. Boney keeps El Cajon, La Mesa and Chula Vista.

Federal Housing, Urban Development Due

Public Meeting Set For HUD

A public meeting has been scheduled for hearing a federal representative explain HUD.

HUD is the federal housing and Urban Development department by which money is granted and loaned to areas to uplift the community.

The meeting will be at San Miguel Elementary school at 7:30 p.m. Friday May 19. Mrs. Lillian Collette, who is president of the California Congress of Parent and Teachers. Foothills Secondary Council. will open the meeting.

Here from Los Angeles for the meeting will be Walter T. Slattery, Area Renewal Coordinator, Area III, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Under a HUD program, a district in a community is laid out for upgrading. All properties within the district are brought up to a uniform code. First are sidewalks, curbs, lighting and road realignment. HUD pays for two-thirds, and the property owner assumes the balance under a three percent, 20-year loan from HUD.

Home improvement may be made with the home owner paying all of the cost with a three per cent, 20-year loan from HUD. In some instances. where the improvement and mortgage amount to no more than $14,000, HUD will advance the entire amount on a three-percent, 20-year basis.

If a district is formed, it will operate similar to that of a 1911 Improvement Act District. Fifty per cent of the property owners can bring the project into being with the rest being forced in.

A HUD program is now being put together in Imepria Beach. It was first rejected and then approved by home owners there.

Slattery toured Lemon Grove late last month and said that the community qualifies for aid.

"It's deteriorating," he said "And it's sub-standard. These are two of the criteria for bringing HUD into action."

The district initially eyed for improvement is Main st. to City Limits, and Broadway to San Miguel st. All residents within these limits are urged to attend the May 19 meeting.

"Leaders, either for opposition or for support, will be chosen from residents of the area under consideration," Mrs. Collette said.

NEW HAIRSTYLING is easy according to Cinderella owner Melda Pierce. The young lady trying on the postiche is Miss Lemon Grove contestant Karen Arthur. Karen hopes to inherit the crown from her sister, Linda, the reigning Miss Lemon Grove. A junior at Mt. Miguel, the 5' 2" lass has both brown hair and eyes. Unlike her airline hostess sister, Karen hopes to be a secretary. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Arthur Jr., 1938 Mass.
The Cinderella Wig Shop, newly opened, is located at 2611 Imperial, Lemon Grove.

College Board Shows Wisdom In Refusing to Hire Teachers

Grossmont trustees wisely rejected the appeal of four teachers who resigned last month, and who, last week asked that the resignations be set aside.

The teachers are Hugh Peterson, a first year English teacher Harold Loumeau, Andrew Neher and George Peranteau.

The four submitted their resignations after trustees faced them in a closed meeting with evidence that alcoholic beverages had been drunk on a college sponsored academic retreat in mid-March at Camp Marston. At least seven students of the 16 attending the retreat participated in drinking with he professors. Students' ages ranged from 19 to 28.

The Camp Marston retreat was listed as a "leadership conference" until after a camp employee, apparently revolted by drinking at a YMCA facility, reported what happened to college authorities. After that, the college referred to it as an "academic retreat" suggesting that the retreat was from "leadership" and into the more liberal world of the academy.

It should be noted that there has been no charge or evidence of drunkeness, rowdyism or disorder during the leadership conference except unofficially.

The Education Code covers such matters by making the acts of these men a dismissable cause—and the students an expellable cause. It was first thought that they resigned rather than to face the possibility of being fired.

The college faculty senate, made up of Grossmont instructors, voted that the teachers be censured for their party in the "retreat." Censure is a mild wrist slap.

Censure means that the accused may not take part in some of the moneymaking activities that the college makes available for them—such as teaching adult school after their own working hours. But the senate did not sugggest that they resign.

Trustees accepted the resignations April 12 then agreed to permit the teachers to work out the school year. The trustees were aware that firing the men would probably have ended their teaching careers. One trustee felt that they could not be replaced during the school year but that is not in line with the facts. Grossmont can get teachers practically on call. It's a buyer's market for teachers in San Diego—all the time.

We think there was a tactical blunder made by the trustees. These men should not have been allowed to continue. Their resignations should have been made effective at once and they should have been sent packing.

As it is, there is still a touch of permissiveness prevailing. It is as though trustees are saying that the law breaking is mild and that the penalty will be invoked at the convenience of the wrongdoers.

Whether the law is popular or not is beside the point. We'd be the first to admit that those indulging in drink find any restriction unpopular. But so are other laws — such as the law which makes the working stiff pay school taxes that have grown so costly that many do not have enough money left to bankroll their own glass of beer.

Because the hearing was closed (it is proper under state law to conduct closed meetings for consideration of personnel matters) we have no way of knowing whether the teachers asked for reconsideration because they suddenly believed the penalty was too severe or whether they had been urged to do so by a supporting group.

There appears to be a waning of support and popularity for the education system here. Past elections shows it is becoming harder to get money issues passed for schools. It is true that the burden has become extremely heavy, financially, but it is equally true that people are becoming restive when foolishness, such as the beer bust, becomes involved in school business.

People want to be proud of their educated system and they want to pay a fair price for it. But they do not want to feel they're being hoodwinked into paying for camp parties, or providing a speaking base for Nazis and Communists, or being a party to sit ins, love in, teach ins, and the originating point for display of four-letter words.

Teenage Beating – More To Come?

By Ken Smith

A young college student is in Paradise Valley hospital with a broken jaw as the result of a vicious attack by four local high school boys.

The four-on-one type of fight has never set very well on the American "fair play" standards. Things have not changed so much that our young people will admire this type of cowardliness and the laws have not been so warped that such a thing will be treated lightly.

That was the attitude that prevailed before the facts came to light.

So far, the four students have not been punished. No one, except the parents and friends of the victim seem very disturbed. It would almost pass for an everyday occurance.

The problem lies not within the single incident, but with a hidden, but very real danger. Teenagers can become aroused very easily, especially during the spring and summer months when idle time mounts to boredom.

Unless checked by law enforcement authorities and backed by interested, active citizens, the incident in Spring Val-

'Sobud' Is No Substitute For Probation Report

SAN DIEGO (CNA) — On April 7, 1967, Ralph John Brown, 22, 7551 San Miguel, Lemon Grove, was to report to his probation officer for a routine visit.

On April 18, he telephoned that officer to say he had just returned from a trip to the mountains and that he had fallen and broken some ribs after being without water or food for four days.

He said he went to the lake for the purpose, according to his probation report, of meditation as is the practice in the mystical cult to which he belongs called "Subud."

Thursday, he was sent to county jail for one year as a condition of further probation.

More serious than the non-reporting, according to the probation officer, was that there was evidence that Brown was taking narcotic pills while on probation for possession of marijuana. He was originally charged with sale of marijuana.

"a little child shall lead them"

How can a child learn to find his place in the world, and make it a better place to live? We would answer, by having the great treasures of the Bible opened up to him, and learning its lessons of love and spiritual power. That's what goes on every Sunday at the Christian Science Sunday School.

The Dimmer View

ley could erupt in a series of gang wars.

Don't think "it can't happen here because Spring Valley and Lemon Grove are too small." It has happened in smaller places and the results are always unpleasant.

Gang wars start with a single spark, like the Spring Valley incident, and shortly afterwards, the area has a raging fire on its hands.

The idea runs something like this: four boys jump one, the victims friends get together and retaliate. The retaliations continue growing larger and larger, involving the innocent along with the envolved, and eventually 40 or 50 young people, boys and girls, are neck deep in violence.

The violence starts with fists, then tire-irons, bicycle chains and knives. From the first switchblade to papa's pistol or shotgun is a very short step.

What can be done to curb the crisis before it begins? Citizens can revolt against permissive juvenile laws which pamper the young lawbreakers, demand of their legislators stiffer penalties and higher bail for delinquents. Demand that the law enforce these restrictions to the limit without regard to family position.

The third step, and perhaps the hardest one, is discipline at home. A young person's values are established as he grows up and te examples set for him, by his parents, are the guidelines that govern his values.

Respect for the law, other's property and fair play are not magical qualities that appear without nourishment.

How Good Are Linens For Upholstery?

Did you know that in the year 1881 the tomb of Rameses II was opened, and that after 3000 years the linen wrappings were found in perfect condition?

Linen was one of the earliest products of civilization. It was the first cloth woven from vegetable fabric. In fact, flax was first grown because of the discovery that its fibers could be woven into cloth. Records show that flax cloth dates back over 4000 years.

Many centuries later a linen cloth maker by the name of Louis Crommelin settled near Belfast, and soon controled the linen industries over all of Ireland and eventually, because of his technique and organization became the world's leading linen manufacturer.

Flax for fiber is chiefly grown in Russia, Poland, and the United States, although Belgium has the finest of all in quality.

Linens are often woven into beautiful fabrics used for upholstering furniture. It is very durable, wears well, and usually cleans excellently. Some furniture pieces are upholstered in plain linens, and others in quilted linens. Both can be and usually are made with near perfect color blends. Furniture covered with these beautiful cloths are really something to see, provided they are covered and tailored by expert craftsmen such as are employed by the All American Upholstery of Lemon Grove. In fact, by just dialing the number 463-8861 they will come to your home without obligation and show you many different types and colors that can be selected to fit best into your home. The number again is 463-8861. In case you are looking for the best in some other types of cloth such as Nylons or Polypropalens, they have a full and beautiful selection of these also. —adv.

Tomorrow is the time for Mount Miguel's Fabulous Fiesta, 1967. All clubs on campus will be responsible for their own booths which will be set up in and around the quad. Among the different attractions will be a finger-painting booth, a Dating Game sponsored by Girl's League, and the Fiesta dance. Starting at 5 p.m., the Fiesta promises to be a great success. A hearty hand to Patti Prince for her work toward organizing the bazaar.

On May 2 Mount Miguel was host for the 1967 Employment Fair. Students and teachers attending from all areas of the district heard different speakers from various professions and vocations in San Diego. As host, Mount Miguel managed to conduct the Fair with a limited amount of confusion on the visitors' part.

Last Friday found the Matador speech team with fingers crossed for their three State qualifiers who were on their way to Santa Barabara. Judy Parker, Barbie Combs, and John Wilson headed for state finals with hopes of bringing back a vitcory, and after all the practice they've put in all week, they have a good chance. Best of luck to you! (Results next week.)

The Masonic Lodge in Mission Valey was the setting for "Moonight and Roses," Mount Miguel's senior prom, last Saturday and it lived up to everyone's expectations.

But the after-prom was the scene of all the real action, accompanied by the music of Sandy and the Classics, Matadors bowled, danced and played a few games of pool.

There are approximately five weeks left until the Class of 1967 graduates, but then, who's counting?

Dear Editor:

I'm wondering:

If your child was taken to Juvenile Hall in the middle of the night for being one of four who had savagely beaten and hospitalized another boy, would you call or investigate how badly this boy was hurt regardless whether your child cried innocent or guilty — would you try to find out the other side of the story? Would your conscience let you sleep wondering if this victim were dead or alive?

I'm wondering, too:

If you drove by in your car and saw four boys beating another, could you pass by and go on your way without giving thought that maybe you could have gone to the nearest home for help, or to the nearest phone and called for a policeman, if to stop would have been a dangerous venture and not advisable? revising.

Helix High's Highland Notes.

by Shauna McGregor

Cards are the big thing with seniors this week. No, not face cards, but name cards. They came in with our graduation announcements and so now everyone is swapping cards with his friends.

Fling has flung again as Helix's journalism staff, the Fling, went to Santa Barbara state competition. Placing third of some 68 competing schools was the result of the efforts of the staff members. Congratulations, once again.

The Sophomore Class was active last week as they sold candy to raise money. Prizes were awarded to those students who sold the most candy. The sales were set off with a lot of bright advertising and encouragement from the class officers.

Next week will find Helix lassies being honored as the Girls' League holds its annual Girls' League week. A special movie for members of the fairer sex will be among the featured events.

Hoot Mon, Helix's annual Scottish carnival will be held next Friday. Each of the classes as well as the clubs and ASB sponsor a booth. Hoot Mon is followed by a dance, the Bermuda Ecnuob (which is "bounce" spelled backwards).

This year's Bermuda Ecnuob will feature something entirely different and new. Computers will match students from Grossmont and Helix who will then be introduced and get to know each other. It sounds like it will be really interesting and a lot of fun.

EVEN THE DUMMY gets into the act when a Miss Lemon Grove contestant is around. The dummy is the property of Chuck Winters' Lucky Yahama. The contestant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Sweetland, 7738 Mt. Vernon.
Suzanne, called Spanky, is a blue-eyed blonde 5'8" tall. She is a Jan. '67 graduate of Mt. Miguel and hopes to be an airline hostess.

he is saying as he talks through his teeth, his jaws are wired shut, she must wonder what the other mothers are thinking. Why haven't they inquired? Oh, so many thoughts must go through her mind.

He graduated with honors from a local high school last year, never has had any trouble with people, is well liked and is a boy any mother would be proud to call hers.

Why this boy? What thrill is there in ganging up four to one? What kind of homes do these four boys come from? Does a lawyer advise people not to be humanitarian in such cases.

I'm wondering all these things, as the victim had brought my daughter home just before this happened. Ironically he had taken her to see "The Bible" as a birthday present to her.

Yes, "The Bible" passages keep going through my mind, "Let vengence be Mine". But so does a dull sick feeling in my stomach when I see the bitterness this victim expresses, which is not his nature. How do you tell him to turn the other cheek, let the courts handle it,—Justice will prevail?

Did this really happen in our Spring Valley Community? Indeed it did. I haven't used any names to protect the innocent???

Ray Charles Appears At SDSC Concert

Ray Charles has built his musical mareer as a vocalist, pianist, alto saxist, writer and aranger. He has been on the scene for 20 years recording blues, country and pop music. Charles will bring his artistry to San Diego State, Saturday, May 20.

His concert will close out the Associated Students Spring entertainment series at 8 p.m., in Peterson Gymnasium. The Raelets will appear on the program.

Music is Charles' life and his way of life. Of his music and current success, Charles says. "Too many artists, after reaching a point of success, just record anything, getting by on their past performances. I want my current record, and the record after that, to be better than anything I've done before. You have to improve and keep improving to stay on top. You can't fool the public."

To make sure his public isn't fooled. Charles selects his own material, lays out his own arrangements, and confers with his musicians to come up with exactly the sound he wants.

Charles draws upon established material in the jazz idiom, in the popular realm, and in the rhythm and blues domain for tunes to record and perform. Even so, more than 60 per cent of the numbers played by Charles before live audiences are his own compositions.

General admission tickets, at $3.50 each, are available at the college bookstore. San Diego State faculty, alumni association members and staff may purchase tickets for $2.00 San Diego State students may attend for $1.50 by showing their activity cards. Tickets will be sold at the gym box office the night of the performance.

Hardison's Telespanish

It has been said that Spanish is the easiest of all the languages to learn. One of the main reasons for this belief is that the sounds of the vowels are consistent throughout. However, by contrast, the sounds for all English vowels change with different words. For example, the vowel "a" represents as many as eight different sounds ranging from the long "a" in the word "ale" to the dotted "a" in the word "sofa'. On the other hand, the Spanish "a" (pronounced "ah)") is always sounded the same whether it is used in a word like "Acapulco" or "mesa."

One of the easier steps to learning the correct pronunciation of Spanish words is to go through the word and sound out the vowels before you try to pronounce the complete word. In the case of the word "Acapulco," the vowel sounds are "ah,ah,oo,oh." When these sounds are modified by the related consonants, the word is pronounced "ah-kah-POOL-koh." The word stress, in this case "POOL," is placed in capital letters to indicate that it is sounded louder than the rest of the syllables in the word.

What are the two main sounds in the word "mesa?" They are "eh" and "ah." Which of the two are sounded the loudest? The "eh", thus the word is pronounced "MEH-sah."

Read over the following words and phrases. See if you can pick out the "ah" sounds. Notice how the symbol "a" produces the "ah" sound in the words where it is used. Then dial 276-2762 on your telephone where you are invited to practice saying the words and phrases with the two minute recorded voice.

PRACTICAL PHRASES

Say "Va used a Acapulco?" (vah oo-STEHD ah ah-kah-POOL-koh) for "Are you going to Acapulco?"
Say "Yo voy manana." (yoh VOH-ee mahn-YAH-nah)
for "I am going tomorrow."

USEFUL PHRASES

Say "Ella va tambien." (EH-yah VAH tahm-bee-EHN) for "She is going also."
Say "El esta alla." (ehl eh-STAH ah-YAH)
for "He is over there."

OTHER PHRASES

Say "Dame la mano." (DAH-meh lah MAH-noh) for "Give me (your) hand."
Say "Ya no." (yah noh) for "Not yet."

90,000 On Welfare Could Be Employed

State Social Welfare Director John C. Montgomery declared he is considerably more optimistic about the number of potentially employable people on welfare in California than the Federal Government's estimate of less than 1% nationally.

He emphasized, however, that the 8% at which his Department pegs employability in the state's welfare rolls is a maximum estimate, subject to a multiplicity of problems that can hinder ability to get and hold a job.

The "less than 1%" estimate nationally was attributed in the press earlier this week to Presidential Aide Joseph A. Califaro, Jr. He was quoted as saying that only about 50,000 of the 7.3 million people on welfare are capable of being given job skills and training that will make them self-sufficient.

Montgomery said his information is that as many as 90,000 of the current 1,187,000 on welfare in California "could be employable."

He pointed out that California has more than 25,000 families with dependent children who qualify for assistance because the father is unemployed. Employability is most likely in this group.

Some states, he observed, have no "unemployed family" aid programs, and this could partially account for the higher percentage of employability in California than the national average quoted by Califano.

"Our figure of 90,000 assumes that all fathers whose families are being assisted under the 'AFDC-U' program are possibly employable, and that all mothers in this group are potentially employable except those who must stay at home with small children or who have physical or mental impairments.

"We do recognize at the same time that a multiplicity of factors may make some of these people unemployable and thereby reduce our estimate: illiteracy, a low level of trainability and capacity to learn, patterns of repeated failure, a poor employment history, emotional problems, lack of social adaptability, and so forth.

"These are problems that can severly limit employability among otherwise apparently able-bodied welfare recipients."

Montgomery repeated, however, that he believes the employability potential in the California rolls has to be rated at substantially higher than 1%.

"We will have to carefully evaluate the national study and see how their sources of information compare with ours," he said.

GIRL SCOUT CHATTER

Girl Scout Leader Nan Lutz with her 6 Cadette Girl Scouts troop no. 235 served as guides last week for the "Sneak Preview" at Girl Scout Headquarters for all Junior Scouts in the San Deigo Council.

Approximately 300 juniors from all over San Diego County participated in the event. Lemoen Grove guides in full dress uniform escorted groups of from 10 to 20 junior scouts from station to station in order to acquaint the girls with the wider scope of activities and skills offered in the Cadette program. Cadettes Barbara Kotnik, Bonnie Barth, Margaret Lutz, Karen Harnish, Terri Stinchcomb, and Debbie Costello did a commendable job. It is the wish of their leaders that all sixth grade junior scouts remain in scouting to become Cadettes next Fall.
